German Translation DCMES 1.1

- Based on former translations
 - Former translations from 1995 - 2000
 - Based on former versions of DCMES
- Based on NISO Standard Z39.85-2007 (May 2007)
 - <http://www.niso.org/standards/resources/Z39-85-2007.pdf>
- Principles of translation
 - As near as possible
 - As far as necessary
 - Translation, not revision

How we did it

- 4 metadata experts
 - Tom Baker
 - Christine Frodl
 - Thomas Fischer
 - Stefanie Rühle
- 4 elements for everyone (three for me)
- Discussions
 - Via email
 - telephone
 - Monthly meetings from March to June

Whom we involved

- KIM experts
 - May 2007: discussion with experts from KIM AG Metadata Interoperability
 - June 2007: first review of translation
- German Metadata Community
 - Weblog for comments went public on July 1st 2007
 - Period for comment from July 1st to July 31st 2007

What we talked about

- creator
 - Schöpfer/Schöpferin? – oldfashioned
 - Urheber/Urheberin? – librarian term
- entity
 - technics?
 - philosophy?
 - or whatever?
- source
 - what does it mean?
 - do we need it?
 - isn't that a relation?

Then we got it

- Last revision: August 2007
- Going public: August 22nd 2007

Übersetzung der Dublin-Core-Elemente

Die AG Übersetzung DCMES des Kompetenzzentrums Interoperable Metadaten hat das Dublin-Core-Metadata-Elemente-Set in der Version 1.1, vom Englische Deutsche übersetzt. Die für die Übersetzung zuständige Expertengruppe wurde dabei direkt durch den Usage Board Director von Dublin Core beraten und un Ziel der Übersetzung ist es, den Bekanntheitsgrad der Kernelemente und damit deren Anwendung im deutschsprachigen Raum zu erhöhen. Die fertige Übersi liegt jetzt vor und wurde vor ihrer Veröffentlichung in einem Blog zur Kommentierung bereitgestellt.
